MENTOR COACHING DEFINITION AND SCOPE

Leadership as a coach comes from a different place other than as either a teacher or executive. We ask deeper questions rather than recommend or direct. Reflect on the leadership of cocreating with your clients, a place of safety and trust, while working in a collaborative alliance.

In class we will discuss the following: *Includes Demo Coach-the-Coach Session

- Introductions of each student/personal Intentions
- Class objectives
- Distinctions and uniqueness of Mentor Coaching (what it is and is not)
- The development of your Mentor Coach Story
- SMART Goals for this course. Use the format described on pg. 101 & 102

Reading assignments for next class: pg. 45-66

- What is Unique to Mentor Coaching?

Om Work: Smart Goals/Buddy Check-In

WEEK 6

INVITING THE SHIFT Includes 1 Coach-the-Coach Session

Coaches will hear the coachable moment, though clients may not always “see” it. We enable our clients to “see” by asking questions which help them explore deeply, create awareness and challenge their limiting beliefs. When we do this, we are inviting the shift. Coaches assist clients to become aware of the shift and can recognize when the client has shifted (or is about to.)

We will discuss:

- Inviting your client to shift perspective—viewing from a different level to facilitate insight
- Developing safety and trust in deepening the collaborative alliance
- Avoiding judgment
- Increasingly using your intuition

Reading assignments for next class: pg. 127-131

Review: pg. 97-100

- Success Insurance for Completing Goals
- 11 Steps to Ignite Change
- Basic Tenets of Mentor Coaching

Om Work: Action Challenges, pg. 8, Yoga Supplement

WEEK 7

FRAME THE SESSION Includes 1 Coach-the-Coach Session

Now that a client has become aware (the shift,) we hold a space so the client may decide IF and HOW they want to change. We help the client determine what (if anything) they want to do with that wisdom. Framing the masterpiece means clarifying and focusing on how the client intends to move forward.
